Governor Whitman regretted to hear that there was any possibility the Chairman Straus would resign from the commission.

Assist in Campaign.

Washington, March 8.—Henry Morgenthau, Ambassador to Turkey, is expected here to-morrow to discuss with President Wilson the advisability of resigning his post to aid in next summer's campaign. Although Administration officials still insist Mr. Morgenthau will return to his post, it is known that he has been urged by prominent Democrats to stay in the United States and assist in financing Mr. Wilson's campaign. If the President wants him here he will tender his resignation without delay.

Mr. Wilson is understood to have discussed the situation with Colonel House, who is believed to be of the opinion that Mr. Morgenthau's services would be of greater value in the campaign than in the relatively obscure position to which he is now assigned.

Mr. Morgenthau, American Ambassador to Turkey, took up at the Navy and State departments to-day the question of sending a collier with food to sufferers in Palestine. He said a group of men in New York were willing to supply about 200 tons of food.

The Democrats held a short conference to-day and decided to "sit tight," although their leaders last week announced their intention of voting to confirm both Whitney and Hervey. It is believed, however, that the fact the next meeting of the Pinance Committee, unless Senator 1 own steps in again.
